StratusIQ and Pikes Peak United Way Expand Partnership to Strengthen Community Connections Across the Pikes Peak Region

Colorado Springs, Colo. – StratusIQ Fiber Internet is proud to announce an expanded strategic partnership with Pikes Peak United Way (PPUW), reinforcing a shared commitment to connecting people, strengthening communities, and creating opportunities for individuals and families throughout the Pikes Peak region.

The partnership builds on an already strong relationship between the two organizations. StratusIQ has supported Pikes Peak United Way through employee giving initiatives and community programs such as the annual holiday wrap and gift program that helps provide gifts for children and families facing financial hardship.

As part of this strategic partnership, StratusIQ will provide internet and television services to Pikes Peak United Way facilities, including the organization's main office and Family Success Center. The agreement also creates new opportunities for collaboration through community engagement, digital literacy initiatives, and ongoing support of programs that connect local residents with resources and opportunities.

"Pikes Peak United Way has a long history of bringing people together to solve challenges and strengthen our community," said Crystal Baker, Marketing Manager for StratusIQ. "As a internet service provider, we believe meaningful connections go beyond technology. We're honored to deepen our partnership with an organization that is making such a significant impact in the lives of our neighbors."

Pikes Peak United Way serves as a catalyst for community impact by bringing together nonprofits, businesses, public agencies, and residents to address some of the region's most pressing challenges. Through initiatives such as the Family Success Center, volunteer engagement programs, and strategic partnerships, the organization helps connect people with resources that strengthen families and communities.

"This partnership reflects the powerful role local businesses can play in building a stronger community," said Cami Bremer, president and CEO of Pikes Peak United Way. "By joining forces with organizations like Pikes Peak United Way, companies have an opportunity to make a measurable difference for families while demonstrating their commitment to the community where their employees, customers and stakeholders live and work."

According to the partnership framework, StratusIQ will receive premiere partner recognition from Pikes Peak United Way, including visibility through digital platforms, community events, and recognition opportunities. The partnership will also allow StratusIQ to conduct digital literacy seminars at the Family Success Center, helping bridge technology gaps and empower residents with valuable online skills.

Together, the organizations are united by a common purpose: creating meaningful connections that empower individuals, strengthen organizations, and build a more resilient community.

"We are excited about what this partnership represents," said Sebastian Nutter, Director of Sales and Marketing for StratusIQ, "By combining resources, expertise, and a shared vision for community impact, we can help create greater opportunities for individuals and families across the Pikes Peak region."

This expanded partnership reflects StratusIQ's ongoing commitment to investing in the communities it serves and supporting local organizations that make Southern Colorado a stronger place to live, work, and thrive.

"Partnerships like this one with StratusIQ will help us expand access to resources and opportunities that will benefit our region for years to come," Bremer said.
